Applicant checklist:
1. Curriculum vitae (listing publications)
2. Research Proposal. The Research Proposal must be written in an accessible, jargon-free manner appropriate for a multidisciplinary review panel. It should contain the following components:
   A. Introduction/Problem Statement. (In this section, the research question, hypothesis, or engineering goal must be stated explicitly.)
   B. Background and significance.
   C. Preliminary research.
   D. Methodology.

Revised August 29, 2018
E. Timeline.
F. Expected outcomes.

The research proposal is limited to three double-spaced pages, and it must be in Times New Roman, with 12-point font and one-inch margins. A separate one-page References Cited section is allowed (must be single-spaced, in Times New Roman, with 12-point font and one-inch margins). No appendices or other supplemental sections are allowed.

3. Two letters of reference: one from the student’s adviser and one from the student’s thesis director. If the student’s adviser and thesis director are the same person, the second letter should come from another member of the student’s dissertation committee. Each letter is limited to two pages and must be in 12-point font with one-inch margins.

4. Current University of Illinois transcript (unofficial will suffice).

Grad College Dissertation Travel Grants – (https://app.grad.illinois.edu/fellowship-finder/index.cfm?action=main.fellowship&fid=3080) Due to Graduate Secretary by 5:00PM 2/19/2019

Applicant checklist:

1. CV. The CV is limited to three pages, and it must have one-inch margins and at least 11-point font throughout.

2. Research Proposal. The Research Proposal must be written in an accessible, jargon-free manner appropriate for a multidisciplinary review panel, and it should explain and justify the specific activities to be undertaken during the grant period. The proposal should include the following sections:
   A. Introduction/Problem Statement. (In this section, the research question, hypothesis, or engineering goal must be stated explicitly.)
   B. Background and Significance.
   C. Preliminary research.
   D. Methodology.
   E. Timeline.
   F. Expected outcomes.

Within the above sections, the research proposal should explain how the proposed travel is essential for the research, including specific locations and dates of travel. The student should indicate how far he/she has progressed in the research project, what remains to be done, and how the research would contribute to the quality and timely completion of the dissertation. If the research project involves human subjects or vertebrate animals, the student should indicate what steps have been or will be taken to secure the necessary approvals. The research proposal is limited to three pages, and it must be double-spaced, in Times New Roman, with 12-point font and one-inch margins. A separate one-page References Cited section is allowed (must be single-spaced, in Times New Roman, with 12-point font and one-inch margins). No appendices or other supplemental sections are allowed.

3. Dissertation Travel Grant Budget Worksheet, as completed by the student. The worksheet must give the dates of travel and also specify and justify expenses up to $5,000 during the proposed travel. Do not use per diem calculations. Indicate the source of the budget estimates (travel agency, website, etc.). The worksheet should be accompanied by a brief (~1/2 page) budget justification narrative explaining each of the items requested.

4. Letter of support from the student's thesis director that discusses the importance of the proposed travel within the overall significance of the dissertation, the student's academic and research accomplishments, and the student’s specific stage in the degree program (milestones passed, requirements remaining to be completed, and estimated length of time to degree completion). The letter must be a maximum of two pages, in 12-point font and with one-inch margins.

5. Current University of Illinois transcript (unofficial will suffice).
